Social & Behavioral Sciences

The Social & Behavioral Sciences Department (SBS) is comprised of the Criminal Justice Program, the Psychology Program, the Sociology Program, and courses in Anthropology, and Social Work. The overarching focus of the SBS Department is to foster understanding of humans and societies. Students are provided opportunities to learn through traditional coursework, internships, and research. The strength of the SBS Department is the emphasis on developing critical thinking, the search for knowledge by means of scientific methods and research, integration of a variety of theoretical perspectives, and promoting a lifetime pursuit of knowledge and understanding. Some courses in the Social and Behavioral Sciences fulfill the General Education Social and Behavioral Sciences and Global and Cultural Perspectives requirements for all students. Coursework in the Social and Behavioral Sciences also fulfills the prerequisites and requirements for students planning to pursue careers in medical and health sciences.
